A GROWING NEWSPAPER IN A GROWING COMMUNITY

'round town

with Betty Allen...

Anyone who has ever undertaken a weekly task such as writing a column, knows the unrelenting reality with which he or she is contended. No matter how much of a "putter-offer" you are, the time arrives when the column must be written and there have been many times when the press of other work has made me wonder why I ever undertook such a project.

On the whole, however, it has been an enjoyable chore and now that I am writing the last one I am conscious of that nostalgic and reminiscent feeling one has when some familiar and long-standing custom is observed for the last time.

What has made my work so stimulating is the generousness of your praise and the restraint of your criticism. Your interest has been genuine and encouraging and has helped make my daily work a pleasant and rewarding occupation.

I have found almost all of the people in Campbell unusually cooperative, not only in the matter of patronizing the paper, but in offering news which has helped to make it of interest to the community. The many friends who have volunteered tidbits of news have my most sincere thanks for they have showed an unselfish desire to make your paper one which really concerns the people of Campbell. They are the ones who have helped so much in writing the paper.

One lesson everyone in any kind of business soon learns is that it is impossible to please everyone, but for anyone whose toes have inadvertently been stepped upon —my sincere apologies.

You have been very tolerant and understanding of mistakes and errors, and of this I have been most appreciative.

It is a pleasure to transfer my duties to two people as capable and efficient as the Blanchards. A news story on this page tells you something of their background, but does not tell you of their enthusiasm and personal charm.

I know that they will make the paper one of which all its readers and friends can be proud. Already they have shown an interest and affection for Campbell which will, I am sure, reflect itself in the paper.

Both of them have that interest in the activities of people which is so necessary in newspaper work. But won't someone PLEASE find a place for them to live!

It's no fun to be away from your children and both of them are anxious to bring Dilly and Lonny here as soon as possible. Lonny will enter high school when it starts.

Any clue or hint of a dwelling will be gratefully received by the Blanchards.

Largely responsible for the stupendous task of correct costuming of the Los Gatos Bowl Pageant, "Dick Whittington's Cat," August 28, 29 and 30, are these Los Gatans: left to right, Mrs. Robert Wondries, chairman of costuming; Miss Ruth Wilson, and Mr. Joseph Caldwell.

HELP!

The Community Recreation Council is sending out a cry for help. Playground space and equipment is needed to help carry on the recreation program during the fall and winter when school children will only be in session for half days. Plans are now being made for a program but additional space is needed to carry them out. Anyone with vacant lots is urged to contact Art Tindall, director.

Grocery Changes Hands Here

Among the local businesses changing hands recently is the grocery store located at Campbell Ave. Formerly known as Bailey's Cash Grocery and later as Phil's Cash and Carry, the store now bears the name of the F and B Grocery.

New owners are Sam Bogatti and Frank Fiore of San Jose. Orginally from Chicago the patners are experienced in the grocery business and enthusiastic about their new venture.

During the war Bongotti served in the Army Air Force.

Valuation Up $500,000 Here

Increase of a half-million dollars in the assessed valuation of property within the Campbell Fire District was announced late Wednesday by E. C. Merrill, fire commissioner.

Twenty-four hour fire protection will be provided for the first time by the Campbell fire district this year and a full-time fireman engaged. Fire district tax rate for the year has been set at 32c. This rate contrasts to the 1944-45 rate of 25c and the 1945-46 rate of 16c when the fire district was operated in part on surplus funds.

A 40 percent increase of fire-protection tax in nearby county areas has been established for the current fiscal year.

Mrs. Jenkins Passes Away

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon from the Methodist Church for Mrs. Mary Blanche Jenkins, long time resident of Campbell, who passed away August 21 following lengthy illness. A native of Fairwater, Wisconsin, she was born on March 6, 1865 and moved to California when only six years old, later moving to Campbell around 1923 where she resided on N. 1st Street. She was preceeded in death by her husband and daughter.

Services were read by the Rev. Lawrence J. Osborne with music by Mrs. Veva Chamberlin. Singers were Miss Barbara Ihrig and Mrs. Doris Brainard who sang "Face to Face" and "Abide with Me". Mrs. Jenkins was an active member of the Methodist Church and was also interested in Red Cross Work. She is survived by four neices and a cousin, Mrs. A.L. Gladding of Santa Cruz. Interment was in the Mountain View Cemetery, Oakland services were in charge of the Rutherford Funeral Home.

Community Chest Campaign In Oct.

In preparation for the Community Chest campaign in October, the Campbell Community Council met on August 21 at the High school with H. M. Shadle as chairman pro-tem.

Many of the leaders of the various youth organizations in Campbell were present and the financial needs necessary to carry on work among the Scouts and Camp Fire groups for the coming year, were discussed.

The chairman appointed a budget committee to establish the 1948 budget, the members to be announced at a later date.

Local Man In Los Gatos Pageant

Bill Minehart of San Tomas Road is occupying an important post in the Los Gatos pageant, "Dick Whittington's Cat" which will be presented in the Los Gatos Bowl over the week-end. Bill is the possessor of the low pleasant voice which will be heard as the narrator during the pageant.

Bill, a senior at the University of Oregon, is spending the summer with his mother Mrs. Ethelda B. Minehart of Rt. 2, Box 331. A student of journalism and planning a career in radio, Bill took part in the recent pageant in Portland, Oregon, and in civic theater plays. During his three years' service in the Army, he was known to many listeners of the "1300 Club" over station W. VTM in Manila as Weary Willie. TO OUR READERS

On September 1 Mr. and Mrs. Harry Blanchard will take over the operation of the Campbell Press, succeeding Betty Allen, editor for the past two years, who will return to her home in Portland.

In making this announcement, I first want to thank Betty Allen for the job she has done since I purchased The Campbell Press last February. In her two years as editor of this newspaper she has become an important part of this community and she will, I am sure, be missed by her many friends. I wish her luck and extend every good wish for the future.

Harry and Peggy Blanchard will become an important part of this community, too. They plan to make their home here and will take part in all civic activities—all important to the proper operation of a community newspaper. Harry will serve as general manager and Peggy will be editor. They are both experienced newspaper people and will give our readers a good newspaper.

I would like also to tell the readers of the Campbell Press something about the stake the Blanchards have in this newspaper and what its success means to them. It is important to them because they share in it. If they make a profit in their operation of this newspaper they will get a good share of that profit.

Most of the income of The Campbell Press, which is a part of a chain of newspapers, remains in Campbell, excepting, of course, that which goes to the various state and federal agencies in taxes. As a matter of fact, at least 90 per cent remains right here in Campbell. A large portion of our income goes to pay salaries of the people who produce the newspaper, both in the shop and the office, while still more goes to pay rent and other local expenses.

So, when you—the people of this community—support the Campbell Press by buying advertising space, subscriptions or job printing, please remember that you are helping local people—your friends and neighbors.

The only portion of our income that leaves Campbell is what I believe to be a fair return on my capital investment in this newspaper and plant.

The success of the Campbell Press means a goal to Harry and Peggy Blanchard as well as to me. They will endeavor to give you a weekly newspaper second to none and will be ably assisted by Mrs. Edna Smith, who is well known to all, and by Les White, our competent foreman in the shop.

I hope that the people of Campbell will continue to support this newspaper and its staff as they have for many years.

PATRICK H. PEABODY.

Merchants and business men of Campbell have indicated that they will close shop doors over the Labor Day holiday and enjoy a long wek-end. Both the Hunt Foods cannery and Campbell Canning company have also stated that they will be closed over the holiday.

Mouse Blamed For Fire

A mouse was blamed by A. H. Armstrong, 170 Rosemary, for the fire which completely destroyed his car and badly damaged his garage last Tuesday night shortly after midnight.

Armstrong told Chief Jack Scott that a mouse had been making his home in the automobile and he believed the small creature had bitten or scratched matches which had been left in the vehicle, causing a flame.

The garage, damaged in the amount of $250, was covered by insurance but the car, of which only the tires remain, was not covered with fire insurance.

Ten men answered the late call and were responsible for keeping the blaze from spreading to the Armstrong house.

HANNEGAN TO QUIT

Washington — It won't be announced for some time, but Postmaster General Bob Hannegan, who had more to do with putting Harry Truman in the White House than any other one man, has decided to yield to his doctors—and to Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder. He will resign effective November 1.

Replacing him as chairman of the Democratic national committee will be Clinton Anderson, now secretary of agriculture. There has been no decision as to who will become postmaster general, but ex-Sen. James M. Mead of New York is under consideration.

Stepping out with Hannegan will be Democratic executive director Gael Sullivan, who, although stepping on some Democractic toes, has done more to pep up the Democratic national committee than anyone since 1944.

Hannegan has made repeated efforts to improve his health, and last winter underwent an operation for high blood pressure. The operation was made more difficult by a gall-bladder complication and was not entirely successful.

Meanwhile, and although absent most of the time, Hannegan has been the last remaining vigorous pro-Roosevelt man in the cabinet. He has consistently fought for Roosevelt's New Deal policies, has argued that if the Democratic party swung to the right it would only become an echo of Republicanism. In this, he has been vigorously opposed inside the cabinet by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, representative of the conservative right.

DIFFERENT STORY NOW

One man who isn't enthusiastic about the senate war investigating committee's bizarre handling of the Howard Hughes case is the former chairman of the committee —President Truman.

When hardworking Rep. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee jokingly referred to the publicity which the old Truman committee is getting under its new management, the president snorted: "It turned out to be a different animal than when I was running things. I am sorry to see politics get mixed up in it."

REBUILDING GERMANY

Warning that his remarks were "strictly off the record," Major General William H. Draper, economic director for the U.S. zone of Germany, told a class of reserve officers about American plans to revive German industry—especially coal.

Talking to the reserve army officers, Gen. Draper said that the American blueprint for increased German industry will be presented to the British at coal talks in Washington. Three main points will be urged upon the British:

1. The daily food ration in Germany should be increased. German miners need more calories.
2. Critical materials should be shipped into Germany, including "possibly raw steel." The mines lack equipment.
3. All mines should be turned over to German management for a "five-year breathing spell" before the question of nationalizing them is decided.

Gen. Draper described the food shortage as the most serious problem holding down coal production.

"All we have really done in Germany is keep the people alive. We will never make them self-sufficient just keeping them alive," he declared.

NEW WAR SECRETARY

It is probably unique in American history that a man should be picked as secretary of war partly because of his defense of Nazi saboteurs who landed off Long Island by submarine. However, if it had not been for his brilliant, although unsuccessful, defense of the Nazi saboteurs, Kenneth Royall today would not be secretary of war.

What happened was that Henry L. Stimson, then secretary of war, felt that the United Staes should lean over backward to give the Nazis the benefit of a fair trial. He wanted to show Europe and the world that a democracy was the exact opposite of Hitler, that every man, no matter what the crime, had the benefit of a trial. So at the recommendation of Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, Royall was made chief defense counsel.

No civilian lawyer wanted to defend the Nazies, but Royall, then a colonel, had to obey orders. His brilliant argument attracted widespread attention.

Royall's appointment to head the army sets a unique record for Justice Frankfurter. He has been directly or indirectly responsible for the selection of three secretaries of war—Henry L. Stimson, Judge Robert Patterson and Royall. But despite what some people consider the handicap of his sponsor, Royall will do a good job.

Campbell Court Notes

By Judge Blaine

On a recent Monday night near midnight a father called up to get his erring son out of jail. After half an hour or so of telephoning back and forth from judge to father and from judge to jail, the father decided to leave his son in until morning.

The judge's household had just got to sleep again when bang went the doorbell. This time it was three teen-age boys wanting to get a pal of theirs, age 17, out of jail. Since the judge had as yet no information on this case he declined to do anything about it. "Thanks, Judge," said one of the boys, sarcastically.

The judge's household had just got to sleep again when bang went the door bell once more. This time it was a friend of the first unlucky one, explaining that the young man had a construction job and needed to get to work early. Would the judge issue a release? A wrathy judge snapped, "Nothing doing!"

The judge's household had just got to sleep again when bang went the doorbell once more! A tipsy youngish man standing there called out, "Hello, John! The key man of the construction crew is in jail. Accommodate a friend and let him out. That's a good guy!"

When the angry "good guy" suggested that a bond broker might provide cash bail, the tipsy friend sneered, "All right, I'll go to a bond broker. But you're not going to be judge here any more!"

At 8.30 next morning a disgusted father called in person to go security for his son's release. "He has a wife and child, but he runs around with unmarried young fellows like a boy."

At 9:30 a deputy sheriff arrived with the boy of 17 and the boy's upset mother. "This boy was in a group hanging around a drinking place near Campbell. He saw a car door open and pushed it shut. A tipsy young fellow in the car got mad, jumped out and started a fight. Our men arrested both for fighting in a public place."

The boy was certified to the Juvenile Court. The young man was fined $20. The judge looked over the morning paper and under Words of Wisdom read, "He that ruleth his spirit is greater than he that taketh a city." The judge laughed. In the night he had been wrathy enough to take a city.

Telephone Rates May Be Higher

According to W. E. Williams, district manager of the Telephone Company, the rates proposed by the company for the San Jose exchange increase the local business individual line service $2.25 a month from the present rate of $6.75, extended business individual line service $2.00 from the present rate of $7.50, increase the local business 2 party line service $1.00 from the present rate of $5.75. Local residence service increases would be $.50 from the present rate of $3.25 for an individual line, $.25 from the present rate of $2.75 for a 2 party line and $.50 from the present rate of $2.25 for a 4 party line. Extended residence service increase would be $.50 from the present rate of $3.50 for an individual line and $.25 from the present rate of $3.00 for a 2 party line. Suburban local service increases would be $.75 from the present rate of $3.75 for business service and no increase from the present rate of $3.25 for residence service. The new residence farmer line will be $1.50 a month and business farmer line rate will be $2.50 a month. Intrastate long distance rate would be increased chiefly by making the minimum rate $.10 and increasing the initial period day station-to-station rates generally by 5 cents for distances from 30 to 140 miles, and by adjusting the person-to-person, and night and Sunday station-to-station rates to bring them into better relationship with the day station-tos-tation rates:

Our Water Level Is Falling

Figures don't lie! Since 1943 our valley's water level has dropped a total of 50 feet. It is now within 29 feet of the all-time low of 1934. In the past year alone it dropped another 16 feet! Construction of the Lexington Dam will save 8 billion gallons of water now going to waste. You will soon have an opportunity to vote the bonds for Lexington Dam. Talk About California

By
Walter C. King

In spite of its huge size, San Francisco bay won a marked success in keeping itself hid for centuries. Explorers sailed back and forth across its doorway, discovering everything else along the mighty coast-line but the bay itself. Barely twenty miles lie between Drake's Bay and the Golden Gate, that bay where in 1589 Sir Francis Drake nailed a "Plate of Brasse" to a "firme post" declaring unto all men that "By the Grace of God and in the name of Herr Majesty Queen Elizabeth of England and Herr successors forever I take possession of this Kingdome," at the same time naming it Nova Albion. Only 20 miles, yet the immortal explorer, although making a close study of the coast, never guessed what a royal harbor lay so near at hand. A curtain of fog at the right moment effectually closed the Gate. Much later, when the Spaniards entered Drake's Bay, they gave it the name of San Francisco, and it was not until Ortega's discovery, on that unwitting march of Gaspar de Portola's so many miles beyond the "noble harbor" 'of Vizcaino for which he was seeking, that the name was transferred to the larger body of water.

Finding the Plate of Brasse was also the sport of chance. No one was looking for it, few knew of it, for nearly three and a half centuries had passed since it was set up. Then, one day in 1932, a chauffeur waiting for his employer idled about the shore of Drake's Bay. He kicked up a heavy square of metal, loooked at it casually and finally tossed it into his car, hardly knowing why. A few days later he just as casually tossed it away again, near San Quentin's Point at the north end of San Francisco Bay.

There came a day when a young man from Oakland, Beryle Shinn, driving the same way, had a blowout. After changing tires he amused himself strolling about and shying stones into the water. Under one piece of rock he picked up the brass plate which he studied with some curiosity, taking it home finally. Scrubbing the grime from it, he found the roughly cut inscription. A friend to whom he showed it thought that Professor Herbert E. Bolton, chairman of American History at the University of California, might be interested, and advised Shinn to take it to him, saying that possibly it might be worth something. But with one thing and another, it was more than a year before Shinn found his way to Dr. Bolton. With that, things happened.

The professor, a specialist on the early history of the Spanish occupation and all that concerned California, was fairly certain from the first that here was the very piece of brass set up by Drake, book. The World Encompassed, book, The world Encompassed, written some fifty years after the event. Details tallied. The only thing that did not tally was the place where the brass was found. It was impossible that Drake would have ignored the discovery of San Francisco Bay if he had really entered it. Anyhow, photographs were made, Mr Shinn's story published, and the chauffeur turned up, having seen the story. He identified the piece of brass as the one he had found.

Since then every possible scientific tryout has been given Drake's Plate, satisfying the experts that it is exactly what it appears to be. The plate, now in possession of the Society, is on exhibition in the University, proving once again that truth continues to be stranger than fiction. As for Mr. Shinn, he was given the sum of three thousand five hundred dollars. A lucky blowout.

Top Bands At Calif. State Fair

Like music? Nine bands and orchestras will play at the California State Fair today through September 7 in Sacramento.

Name orchestras will be those of Rudy Vallee, Spike Jones, and Tommy Dorsey. Vallee and Dorsey will play in "Thespiana" in front of the grandstand and later in Governor's Hall for dancing. Vallee, incidentally, has one of the principal roles in "The Bachelor and the Bobby Soxer," just-released comedy which stars Cary Grant. Myrna Loy and Shirley Temple.

Spike Jones will present his screwball "City Slickers" in front of the grandstand and will also put on a 30-minute show in Goveror's Hall for the two nights he is booked, September 2 and 3.

Four popular Sacramento orchestras will play for Governor's Hall dancing when the name ba'ton-wavers are not there. They are Eddie Halter, Bunny Crites, Buster Peart, and Kelly Perini.

The 30-piece Sacramento band which has been playing Sunday evening concerts at William Land Park under the direction of Fred Christian has been retained as the official California State Fair band and will play in the open air theater and for other engagements on the grounds.

Finally, Tommy Boyd will direct the "pit band" for Adrian Awan's "Thespiana", the outdoor extravaganza, in front of the grandstand nightly.

Trailer Width Bill Aids Farmer

Passed by the California State Legislature in the session ended June 24 was a bill introduced by Assemblyman Jack Thompson to increase the legal width of tractor trailers from 98 to 120 inches.

If this bill had not been passed, an estimated three-fourths of all tractor trailers operated by California farmers would have had to be rebuilt, according to a recent statement from the assemblyman.

In addition to securing the $2,475,000 appropriation for Windy Point dam above Los Gatos, a number of other bills of vital importance to this district were introduced and passed with the backing of Thompson, who introduced and brought to final conclusion four bills relating to soil conservation. He was chairman of the interim committee on this important subject and these bills were the result of investigations among the farmers by the committee.

Dorsey Concert Slated Monday

Not merely a popular band-leading maestro content to rest on his laurels, Tommy Dorsey, the beloved T. D. of the jitterbugs, who will appear at San Jose Auditorium on Monday, Sept. 1, is also a highly respected musical artist, who has made classical recordings, had a special concerto written for him and is looked up to by countless people in the music field for his keen judgment of talent and shrewd ability to build new stars.

Tommy's many fans appreciate his mastery of the trombone, but few realize that Dorsey is even more than a top-flight swingman with the sliphorn. Victor Records gave an indication of the maestro's mastery of his instrument by issuing a Red Seal record heretofore reserved only for Toscanini, Heifetz, Kreisler and others in the classical category—featuring Thomas Dorsey's solo trombone in Eric Coates' "By The Sleepy Lagoon" and Charles Dawes' famous "Melody." This Mr. Dawes, incidentally, is the very same gentleman who was vice-president of the U.S. in the Coolidge era.

The Rovers are planning a three day meeting over the Labor Day week-end at their Madrone camp to get the convention report from the delegates.

No more of this!

No more fumbling with your house key because inadequate wiring failed to include a switch-controlled light for a dark porch.

No more complaints from the lady of the house who plaintively asks,

"Why didn't we put in enough electric outlets so I can use my vacuum cleaner or electric toaster without a bothersome tangle of cords and wobbly plugs?"

Yes, Adequate Wiring brings the convenience of plenty of outlets properly placed. It brings more light switches. It means more wiring circuits of large enough wire (at least size 12) to deliver full power electricity.

Insist on Adequate Wiring in the home you buy or build.

Veterans' News

Disabled veterans of World War II enrolled in educational of on-the-job training courses under Public Law 16 will receive an increase in subsistance allowance if their disability is rated at 30 per cent or higher, according to Veterans Administration.

Under the provisions of a Law voted at the last session of Congress, this group of veterans will receive $115 a month, without dependents, $135 if married, $20 for the first child, $15 each for additional child or dependent parent.

Veterans with a disability rating of less than 30 per cent will continue to receive allowances at the old rate, $105 if single, $115 with one dependent, $10 for one child, $7 for each additional child, and $15 for a dependent parent.

Other legislation passed at the last session of Congress affecting veterans included:

A 20 per cent in nonservice-connected pensions for veterans of the Civil and Spanish-American Wars and in death compensation to their dependents, effective with payments for the month of September.

Some 113,000 veterans and 95,000 dependents of deceased veterans will benefit by the new law. VA said automatic adjustments will be made in the amount of each check and advised these veterans and their dependents not to write or call about their cases.

Another law extended for one year the time in which veterans of World War II who lost, or lost the use of, one or both legs, may make application for automobiles or other conveyances.

The deadline for application for enlisted men's terminal leave pay was extended until Sept. 1, 1948. These applications are made directly to the Army, Navy, Marine Corps or Coast Guard and are not handled by VA.

Another law now makes it possible for retired enlisted men and officers of Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard to represent veterans in claims against the V.D. if they are accredited representatives of one of the 68 national and state organizations authorized to file such claims.

July 25, has been established as the final day which may be counted by servicemen and women as service during World War II in establishing eligibility for education and training, loan guarantees and readjustment allowances under the G.I. Bill.

However, those who entered the service under the Armed Forces Voluntary Recruitment Act of 1945 and whose enlistment period extends beyond July 25, 1947, are not affected by the law. For those coming under the Voluntary Recruitment Act the comparable period will be from Sept. 16, 1940 to the end of the term for which they enlisted or reenlisted.

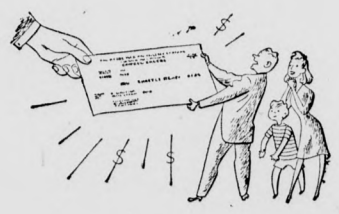
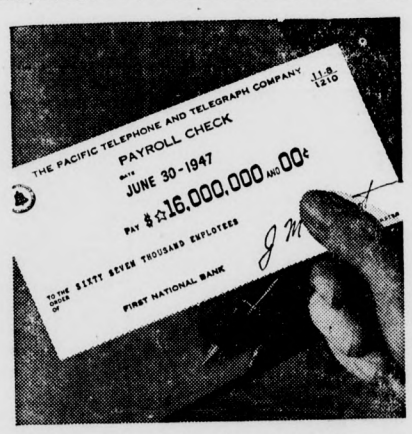
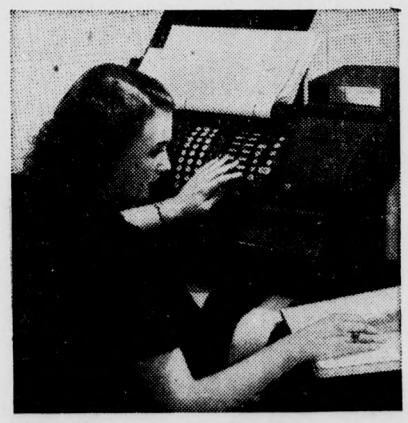
This check is also made out to you





The monthly paycheck to our employees has been getting bigger all the time. In a year's time it has grown from nearly $13,500,000 to about $16,000,000. Thousands of new people have come with us to help with the big job we must do to meet the West's tremendous growth . . . and our employees are getting the best pay rates ever.



The girls who run these check-writing machines are mighty important people . . . not only in the lives of our 67,000 employees . . . but in your life, too. For they write thousands of checks each month. And all these checks, as they go into circulation, add to the total prosperity of everyone living in the communities we serve in the Pacific West.

About 60 cents of each dollar you pay for service is for employees . . . almost all the rest goes for taxes and other operating expenses. A few cents of each dollar go to more than 700,000 people, many of them Westerners, whose savings built the telephone system. Yes, your telephone dollar serves you, the butcher, the baker and the whole community.

New Working Dollars . . . Millions of new dollars needed to build buildings and buy new equipment to meet the public demand for more telephones and more service do not come from telephone bills. New dollars come from people who are willing to put their savings into the business. We must earn enough to attract these new working dollars.

HISTORY OF CAMPBELL

By T. A. CUTTING

"The administrador is a kind, excellent old man, who has risen from being a corporal in the army to his present post. I could not learn his original name. His wife belongs to one of the best families in the country. On her marriage with the administrator she insisted upon his taking her name, which is Aliza, one of the most distinguished in California in bygone days. This, I understood, was not unusual, as the old family pride still predominates among these people.

"To the old lady we were soon introduced; her countenance and appearance bespoke her excellent character, which is well known throughout California. Nothing could be cleaner or more tidy than her house. Shortly after our arrival, breakfast was announced. It consisted principally of fruit and small ollas, peppers, etc. This was prepared by the hands of Senora Aliza herself.

"After breakfast I strolled around the premises and saw our good hostess busily engaged in directing her domestic concerns. The rear of the mission forms a quadrangle of low sheds in which the domestic manufacture of candles, preserves, baking and a variety of other duties are performed. In these were some ten or fifteen Indians busily employed.

"Don Miguel proposed to us to make a visit to Padre Mercador and that he might not be taken by surprise, a messenger was sent to ask at what hour he would be ready to receive us. This ceremony is deemed necessary, for the duties of the padre are considered here to be of such a nature as to preclude intrusion.

"Our messenger speedily returned with an intimation that he would be glad to have us pay him our visit at once. The padre received us with much courtesy. He is of the Franciscan order, good-looking, portly, and possesses a cheerful and intelligent countenance. The padre spoke with resignation in relation to the manner in which the missions had been despoiled.

"Padre Mercador served us with wine and fruit; of the latter the pears were delicious, Don Miguel having notified me that it was expected our party should ask to see the church. I made the request; and the padre having supplied himself with a large bunch of keys, ushered us through several narrow passages to the door of the vestry-room in the rear, into which we entered. Several pairs of massive candle sticks of silver were on the tables, and there were trunks of altar pieces, costly robes and laces."

Captain Wilkes goes on to describe the church with its painted fresco executed by a young artist from Mexico whose work he does not admire. The padre told him he had an Indian choir of 80 voices who practiced daily, who had good ears for music and learned readily. He was invited to play chess when evening should come.

The mission garden was enclosed by an adobe wall and planted to malaga grapes and fruits, about two acres in all. The key to the garden was held by the padre, and the first picking was used for wine.

From the mission Wilkes went to San Jose, and described the rows of trees lining the Alameda as providing sufficient shade to leave no excuse for residents of the pueblo not attending church on Sundays. As the party approached, they saw a large number of women on the banks of the Guadalupe, and at first Wilkes thought it was some sort of celebration. Upon nearer approach he found that it was washday and that the gay decorations on the bushes and trees were merely drying clothes. The alcalde lived in a two-story cream-colored house built in the middle of the street. The population numbered 600, of which only 40 were whites.

The alcalde told him that although there were a few stabbings each month, the chief worry was Indian horse thieves. They had been especially troublesome of late, having stolen three or four hundred animals. No troops were available to pursue them, and they lived in constant danger of raids. Everybody came into the pueblo at night for safety. There were two Americans in town, millers of good repute. There was no coinage; hides at $2 each were used in trade for goods brought by the ships.

Back at the mission, matin belis sounded at dawn and soon the traveler heard the Indion choir at practice. He was not very favorably impressed, describing what he heard as "nothing earthly and nothing heavenly, much noise, but little music."

As he was leaving the mission a horseman galloped up in a jacket with slashed sleeves and ornamental braid. His shirt was elegantly embroidered, his breeches of bright blue velvet held with a red sash, and bedecked with braid and brass bells. He had leather leggings with silver work and shoes with large silver spurs and heavy rowels. On his head was a broad-brimmed sombrero decorated with cords and ribbons and provided with a cord under the chin. His horse also was richly caparisoned, bridle trimmed with silver and saddle and stirrups richly adorned. Such was the Spanish vaquero of the day.

In 1852 United States agents made treaties with the Indians of California promising compensation for the lands taken from them by the whites, Seventy-five million acres of California land were awarded to them, but the treaty was never ratified by Congress. The agreement was forgotten until 1942. Then it was taken to the courts and in 1945 an award of $5,240,000 was made in part settlement, the money to be used only for charity, health and education.

In 1947 an Indian convention was held in Sacramento to petition for a pro-rating of the sum among California Indians, instead of holding it as a charity fund. They also decided to file suit in 1947 for the settlement of the blance at $1.25 per acre. Persons of Santa Clara county having one-eighth Indian blood were notified to contact lawyer, E. W. Risling, of Palo Alto.
